I'd like this email to be confidential between us...

But I wanted you to know that I wrote as strong a recommendation as I thought I could get away with that Drollinger provide "big picture leadership" in the interests of their long term customers for relief of the parking enforcement frustrations that WISH Charter School is feeling. "Do the right thing" as opposed to "do things right," I suggested. It was also noted that parking is not really scarce in the subject lot, at the subject quantity and times of the morning / afternoon, in increments as short as are being discussed, while parents walk their children to school.

The email went to Andy Loos and Miki because I figured that's where support for such leadership might emanate.

At this point, I need to respect that the Drollinger organization needs to do what ever they are going to do.
